R. M. A. CLERKS BANQUET CHIEF

William M. Collins, National President Talks to
Ogden Men

Discussing the problems of the railway mail clerks, present laws and regulations that affect them and legislation which is proposed for the betterment of the service, railway mail clerks of Ogden, Salt Lake, Pocatello and Cheyenne attended a banquet given last evening at the Weber club in honor of William M. Collins, national president of the Railway Mail Association, of Washington. About 50 clerks were in attendance.

President Collins was the chief speaker of the evening, being introduced by John C. Livingston, as toastmaster, representing the Ogden branch of the association, the members of which were the hosts. Other speakers were Herman B. Askew, president of the Ogden branch, Ross R. Winterode, president of the Salt Lake branch, Monroe E. Williams and W. E. Zuppman, advertising manager of the Standard-Examiner.

The national president urged the railway mail clerks to present their views to their congressmen, so that it could be plainly understood that the clerks did or did not favor certain measures. Some of the present rules and regulations of the postoffice department were criticized by the speakers as damaging to the service given to the public, as well as injurious to the mail clerks.

The committee in charge of the event was composed of John A. Gager, chairman; Herman B. Askew and Herbert H. Snyder.

FORMER SERVICE MEN GIVEN JOBS

Several former service men have been placed at work in Ogden in different capacities, according to Secretary Jesse S. Richards of the Ogden chamber of commerce.

Other men are being placed at various posts as soon as positions are obtainable, it is announced. Statements of Ogden men who were in the service and now seeking employment are forwarded to the chamber of commerce here daily by Clarence Baird, employment representative of the U. S. veterans' bureau, it is announced.

Ogden firms having positions vacant which might be filled by former service men are asked to get in touch with Secretary Richards.

by breaking up congestion

Most aches of rheumatism arise from congestion. Apply Sloan's. Don't rub. It penetrates to the sore spot, starting the blood circulating. This reduces painful congestion—the inflammation vanishes.

Try Sloan's on sprained, bruised muscles, on aching backs and neuralgia. Try it on that "cold in the chest."

CHANGE IN GRID GAME UNLIKELY

Weber Said to Oppose Saturday Contest as Legion Requests

The Weber-Ogden High annual gridiron tussle, a big feature locally, may be played Friday, November 10, instead of Saturday, November 11, according to an announcement made today by President Aaron Tracy of the Weber college.

Members of the Herman Baker Post, Number 9 of the American Legion are taking steps to have the two teams battle on Armistice day, which falls on a Saturday. Efforts are being made to have the Weber college officials agree to the change, but from all indications the contest will be played as scheduled.

The majority of the Weber students reside in the county districts and would be unable to attend the contest on Saturday, it is stated. Also plans have been made for many weeks to stage the contest on Friday.

A meeting between representatives of the Weber school and the American Legion held Wednesday afternoon failed to result in a decision. The affair has been referred to the student body at Weber and a decision may not be rendered for a least two or three days.

If Weber consents to play the contest on Saturday the game will be played on that date as the Ogden High was agreed to the change. However, should the Wildcats hold to their original plans the game will be played on Friday.

Lure of Diamonds Theme for 'Pink Gods' Now at the Alhambra

Do precious gems, especially diamonds, exercise an undue and mysterious influence upon mortals? Opals have long been regarded by many as harbingers of ill luck and nearly every precious stone has some sort of character for good or ill assigned to it. Every great diamond from the Kohinoor down has a record of crime and a trail of blood behind it.

In the new Paramount picture, "Pink Gods," which comes to the Alhambra theatre for three days beginning today, Lorraine, played by Bebe Daniels, comes under the evil spell of the "pink gods"—the diamonds which are mined in the South Africa fields and eventually they lead her to disaster.

James Kirkwood is cast for the male leading role in the drama which was adapted from one of Cynthia Stockley's stories. Anna Q. Nilsson has a brilliant role and others included in the cast are Raymond Hatton, Adolphe Menjou, Guy Oliver, Arthur Temple and George Cowt.

Pantages Offers New Program of Novelty Numbers This Week

On the new bill which opens today at the Orpheum, there is much in the way of novelty, many acts which display exceptionally well developed talent, and some of the costuming and stage settings of which are hardly short of gorgeous. Harry Downing and company present a flashing revue, with clever cast of principals offering a medley of dances and special songs which are said to be the personification of rhythm and melody.

Walter Weema, the southern humorist, delights with a fund of original stories that really compel one to laugh. He possesses an inimitable style which makes his humor infectious. The Gallier Sisters are two charming girls possessed of much personality and a magnificent array of wardrobe.

Fulton and Burt are a man and maid gifted with a smart line of repartee and a vehicle founded on humor.

Green and Dunbar are a pair of jolly fellows with a clever program of comedy and songs, while Samstead and Marion offer "A Bachelor's Vision," which is a novel blend of story, song and classical art embellished by physical accomplishments. The big feature picture this week is one that will delight Pantages patrons. The story is Elaine Hammerstein in "Reckless Youth."

"The Old Oaken Bucket" is a sincere and earnest attempt to catch the theme that inspired the writing of the best loved song in America, and reproduce it in nature's own setting. There who are fortunate in seeing this delightful visualization of the days of childhood, and the many happy incidents associated with it will be amazed at the manner in which the producers have attained the ideal in production.
